

Health in times of crisis – access, grey markets and vulnerability

MAY 23, AT 13.00-16.00, THE PUFENDORF INSTITUTE, BISKOPSGATAN 3, LUND

Welcome to this symposium that addresses different aspects of how the Covid-19 pandemic has affected societies.

Symposium programme

13.00-13.15 Welcome, Cecilia Andersson & Susanne Lundin

13.15-14. 25. Moderator, Cecilia Andersson

13.15-14.00 Anja Smith, Tracking household well-being and health during a pandemic: insights from South Africa

14.00 - 14.25 Mia-Marie Hammarlin, Managing doubt and vulnerability in times of crisis: Perspectives on vaccine hesitancy

14.25-14.55 Break, coffee & tea

14.55-15.45 Moderator, Rui Liu

14.55-15.20 Olof Sundin, Responsibility, access and the crisis of information

15.20-15.45 Amelie Persson, To be a pharmacist during the covid-19 pandemic

15.45-16.00 Discussion and Good Bye, Susanne Lundin & Olof Sundin

It will be a hybrid symposium with limited seating, maximum 30 people on location. Please indicate if you wish to attend at the Pufendorf Institute or via Zoom when registering. We serve coffee & tea with snacks. Please inform us of any food allergies.

Registration no later than May 2 via email to: cecilia.andersson@kultur.lu.se

Speakers & Organizers:

Dr. Cecilia Andersson, Department of Arts and Cultural Sciences, Lund University

Ass. Professor Mia-Marie Hammarlin, Department of Media and Communication Studies, Lund University

Dr. Cecilia Lenander, Region Skåne, Department of Clinical Sciences, Lund University

Rui Liu, PhD Candidate, Department of Service Management and Service Studies, Lund University

Prof. Susanne Lundin, Department of Arts and Cultural Sciences, Lund University

Amelie Persson, PhD Candidate in Medical Science Lund University & Pharmacist, Skåne University Hospital

Dr. Anja Smith, researcher at the Department of Economics, Stellenbosch University, South Africa

Prof. Olof Sundin, Department of Arts and Cultural Sciences, Lund University

Kristofer Söderström, PhD Candidate, the Department of Arts and Cultural Sciences, Lund University

Welcome!

The symposium is supported by the LMK Foundation and the Marcus and Amalia Wallenberg Foundation.